

Tamara Craver

President and CEO, Monarch School

Tamara Y. Craver is a visionary nonprofit leader dedicated to the transformative power of "Heartwork."

With over 25 years of executive experience in youth development and organizational leadership, Tamara has spent her career championing education equity, student advocacy, and community wellness. She is recognized for building sustainable, high-impact initiatives that bridge the gap between potential and opportunity.

A respected voice in the San Diego community, Tamara serves on multiple boards and is currently advancing her expertise as a Community Scholars Fellow in the Social Innovation graduate program at the University of San Diego. Her leadership is defined by a relentless commitment to creating a more equitable future through strategic innovation and compassionate service.